MILLSAPS CHEERS

Tereau Pearson of Bay St. Louis, was recently elected as varsity cheerleader at Millsaps College.

Miss Pearson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felton L. Whitfield, was among five women and five men elected by the student body to the position. The 1984-85 cheerleading squad will cheer for the Majors football and basketball teams.

A graduate of Bay Senior High, Miss Pearson is a junior biology major at Millsaps.

Part of America's real strength is the confidence that we can and will take care of ourselves. And that's where U.S. Savings Bonds come in—they help in strengthening both family and national financing.

Parish Council President Geraldine Lang reminds us that "in order to face our challenges, all members of the Christian family of St. Rose should adopt the philosophy of being 'Our Brother's Keeper.' This would bring improvement into our human relations. It would also lay the foundation for the full use of our opportunities. A number of obstacles stand in our way of using these opportunities. However, these obstacles should never be viewed as problems, but only as challenges."

Parishioners are invited to join the 11th International Family Rosary March this afternoon at 2 p.m. either at St. Clare Church in Waveland or at St. Ann Church in Clermont Harbor.

The rosary will also be recited in front of and inside the churches for those not able to march. Parishioners are invited to participate in a Peace Vigil at the Nativity Cathedral in Biloxi Friday, 7-10 p.m. or Saturday, 9 a.m.-noon.

Included in each vigil service will be exposition of the Blessed Sacrament, a homily on peace and justice, a scriptural rosary, a time for silent prayer and reflection, as well as communal expressions of praise, thanksgiving and reconciliation to God our Father, in His Son, Jesus Christ.

There will be a place reserved in the Cathedral rectory for people to take a break during this vigil for coffee, etc.

Our church bells will toll at 7 p.m. on Friday, inviting parishioners to pause and pray for peace in the world.

The Ladies of Peter Claver next Sunday will attend the 7 a.m. mass as a group.

Also next Sunday the 9 a.m. mass will be the First Communion Celebration for children.

On Monday, May 14, at 7:30 p.m. there will be a Mass of Recognition and Thanks for Bishop Brunini at the Nativity Cathedral in Biloxi.

A reception will follow the mass in the Sacred Heart Center behind the Cathedral. Ladies of the parish are asked to bring along some refreshments to be served there.

MASS SCHEDULE

Sunday, 7 and 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Daily, Monday through Saturday, 6:30 a.m.

Saturday (Vigil) 6 p.m.

Mother of Perpetual Help Novena at beginning of Tuesday mass.

Confessions are heard half hour prior to weekend masses and upon request.

Correction

A May 3 article about Silver Jubiliarians Brother Maurus and Brother Malcolm of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart incorrectly stated that both parents of Brother Maurus are deceased. Jan Lott of Bay St. Louis, a niece of Brother Maurus' mother reports that Anna Mae Borden is living in Metairie, La. The Sea Coast Echo apologizes for the error.

It is our understanding there is still a need for several girls ages 13-15 to play in the Bay St. Louis Babe Ruth Softball League.

George Proulx, president of the Bay St. Louis Babe Ruth League, said he is hoping to field enough girls to fill four teams in the league's first season.

We are hoping to get enough players to have a good league this season.

Any girl in the age group interested can get further information by calling Proulx at 467-7516 after 5 p.m.

National Hospital Week week starts tomorrow with Hancock General having an Open House on Tuesday. We understand there will be guided tours, free blood pressure testing, and free pulmonary functions also on Tuesday at HGH.

This would be a good time to become acquainted with the many services offered by the local hospital, and we know the administration, doctors and nursing staff welcomes you to come see for yourself.

In case you are a newcomer, HGH is located on Dunbar Avenue, Bay St. Louis, a few blocks off US-90.

On Saturday HGH will sponsor a Feelin' Good Run-Bike-Walk at Buccaneer State Park at 5 p.m.

It sounds like it is going to be an interesting event to participate in for many folks.

Local farmers have only one thing on their minds now, and that is when will the next rains come.

As you know, we had our share of the wet stuff earlier this year, but gardeners are suffering for a lack of moisture in the county now.

On Saturday morning we did see some crisp fresh home grown new potatoes, string beans, and squash among the many fresh vegetables being offered by the vendors.

The farmers were even under their new shed at the Hancock County Fair Grounds. Only a few more pieces of metal have to be placed for the project to be completed.

The next area of work will probably be some ground work when the rains come.

THE STAKES IN CENTRAL AMERICA

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the text of a radio address delivered recently by President Ronald Reagan on the Central American situation.

My fellow Americans, much has been made of late regarding our proper role in Central America and, in particular, toward Nicaragua. Unfortunately, much of the debate has ignored the most relevant facts. Central America has become the stage for a bold attempt by the Soviet Union, Cuba and Nicaragua to install communism by force, throughout this hemisphere.

The struggling democracies of Costa Rica, Honduras, and El Salvador are being threatened by a Soviet bloc and Cuban-supported Sandinista army and security force in Nicaragua that has grown from about 10,000 under the previous government, to more than 100,000 in less than five years.

Last year alone, the Soviet bloc delivered over $100 million in military hardware. The Sandinistas have established a powerful force of artillery, multiple rocket-launchers and tanks in an arsenal that exceeds that of all the other countries in the region put together.

More than 40 new military bases and support facilities have been constructed in Nicaragua—all with Soviet bloc and Cuban support—and an investment of over $300 million. In addition to money and guns, there are now more than 2,500 Cuban and Soviet military personnel in Nicaragua; another 5,000 so-called "civilian advisors," as well as PLO, East-bloc and Libyan assistance to the Sandinistas.

And that's not all. Our friends in the region must also face the export of subversion across their borders that undermines democratic development, polarizes institutions and wrecks their economies.

This terrorist violence has been felt by all of Nicaragua's neighbors, not just El Salvador. There have been bombings in peaceful Costa Rica, and numerous attempts to penetrate Honduras—most recently last summer, when the Sandinistas infiltrated an entire guerrilla column which had been trained and equipped in Cuba and Nicaragua.

El Salvador, struggling to hold democratic elections and improve the conditions of its people, has been the main target of Nicaraguan covert aggression.

Despite promises to stop the Sandinistas from training and directing guerrillas in El Salvador and provide weapons and ammunition, they are again threatening the Salvadoran people. It isn't for Nicaragua, El Salvador's problems would be manageable, and we could concentrate on economic and social improvements.

Much of the Sandinista terror has been aimed at the Nicaraguan people themselves. The Sandinistas who govern Nicaragua have savagely murdered, imprisoned and driven from their homeland tens of thousands of Miskito, Rama and Suma Indians. Religious persecution against Christians has increased, and the Jewish community has fled the country. The press is censored, and activities of labor and business are restricted.

The Sandinistas have announced elections for November, but don't hold your breath. Will new parties be permitted? Will they have full access to the press, TV and radio? Will there be unbiased observers? Will every adult Nicaraguan be allowed to vote? Given their record of repression, we should not wonder that the opposition, denied other means of expression, has taken up arms.

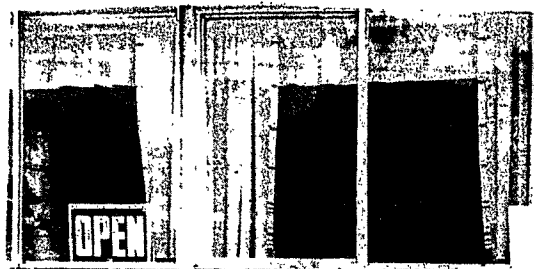

We've maintained a consistent policy toward the Sandinista regime, hoping they can be brought back from the brink peacefully through negotiations.

We're working through the Contadora process for a verifiable multilateral agreement, one that insures the Sandinistas terminate their export of subversion, reduce the size of their military forces, implement their democratic commitments to the Organization of American States and remove Soviet bloc and Cuban military personnel.

What I've said today is not pleasant to hear. But it's important that you know Central America is vital to our interests and to our security. If not only contains the Panama Canal, it sits astride some of the most important sea lanes in the world. Sea lanes in which a Soviet-Cuban naval force held combat maneuvers just this week.

The region also contains millions of people who want and deserve to be free. We cannot turn our backs on this crisis at our doorstep.

Imagine the heat of the Caribbean sun on your face as you relax on a beach. The sound of the waves crashing against the shore. The gentle breeze carrying the scent of tropical flowers. This is the perfect vacation spot. The heat of the Caribbean sun on your face as you relax on a beach. The sound of the waves crashing against the shore. The gentle breeze carrying the scent of tropical flowers. This is the perfect vacation spot.

EQUAL ACCESS ACT

Many public schools, sensitive to the problem of discrimination, have gone overboard in denying access to school facilities for religious student groups. Congress may soon correct the situation.

Legislation known as the "Equal Access Act" is scheduled for consideration on the House floor next week. It is a compromise committee bill which covers many of the same points covered in similar legislation I introduced last year.

The act is drafted to give religious student groups the same right to use secondary school facilities for extracurricular meetings as other student-initiated groups. The measure was approved by the House Education and Labor Committee by a vote of 30-3.

There has been growing officially-sanctioned discrimination against student religious speech because of confusion surrounding what types of student-initiated religious activities are permissible in public schools.

Many school administrators have flatly banned any form of student religious activity, even when there is no hint of state sponsorship or involvement, rather than risk expensive lawsuits.

Many of my colleagues in the House and I view this as a disturbing abridgment of students' free speech rights.

This constitutes a form of official hostility toward religious speech that goes far beyond government neutrality.

In a recent case, the U.S. Supreme Court applied the equal access concept to a state university, holding that the school could not discriminate against religious student groups.

The language of the Equal Access Act is patterned after that Supreme Court ruling. It states that a public secondary school may not discriminate against religious student-initiated groups which wish to meet during non-instructional periods in school facilities.

In other words, school officials must simply extend the same rights and restrictions to religious and non-religious student groups.

The legislation is limited to public secondary schools and includes a number of safeguards to prevent coercion or official involvement in religious student meetings. Meetings would have to be voluntary and student-initiated, and school officials would retain the authority to set time and place restrictions.

I hope the overwhelming approval of this legislation by the committee is a sign that the full House will move appropriately. While some questions still remain to be finalized during the debate, the Equal Access Act concept is good legislation and should be approved.

WHAT ARE HEART MURMURS?
Heart murmurs are extra heart sounds produced by the circulation of the blood through the valves and chambers of the heart. There are different kinds of murmurs. A doctor can recognize them and determine whether a murmur is harmless or indicates a heart condition requiring medical care. Innocent, or functional, murmurs are common in children. A large percentage are likely to have had one at some time. Contact your local American Heart Association for more information.

Small-business Angle

Small Business Economic Indicators Good

Despite widespread uncertainty about the future of interest rates, the optimism of small-business owners hit a record high in January, according to the latest Quarterly Economic Report of the National Federation of Independent Business. That is especially good news because, for 10 years, that report has been an extremely reliable source of economic forecasting.

Fueled by pent up consumer demand, small-business plans for increasing inventories, capital spending and new hiring reached record or near-record highs in January. In order for such healthy signs of recovery to continue, however, deficits must be reduced. Otherwise, NFIB economists say, we'll be facing high interest rates again. For the moment, at least, many small business are having their best quarter in memory and many business owners expect the good times to continue for at least the next several months.

Take inventory investment, for example. A record 24 percent of all firms surveyed plan to add to inventories in the next three months, up for 18 percent in October. Not only is the 24 percent figure the highest ever reached in the 10-year history of the NFIB survey, but those firms adding to their inventories will be buying relatively expensive goods and equipment, not paper clips and pencils.

Planned capital expenditures also reached a new record high in January, with 35 percent of all firms planning to make capital investments, particularly in cost-saving equipment and vehicles over the next six months.

While employment prospects are some of the nation's biggest and once flag-shed industries—such as steel for example—look bleak, employment opportunities within small businesses hit a record high in the first quarter. At least 10 percent of small business firms planned to expand their workforce in the first three months of 1984, while only seven percent planned to make cuts. Small business employs about half the private, non-farm workforce. Employment will increase most in small-business manufacturing firms and least in the retail and agriculture segments of the economy.

Despite all this planned economic activity, inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index for non-food items, should average under 5 percent. It is interesting to note also that small-business borrowing hit near-record lows in the fourth quarter, primarily due to higher cash flows which reduced borrowing needs. Only 39 percent of all firms reported borrowing on a regular basis and those that did paid an average interest rate of 13.3 percent. The average prime rate for the same period was 11 percent.

The NFIB quarterly economic report indicates small business is doing everything in its power to help keep the economy healthy and running efficiently. But it needs help from Washington. High—and higher—interest rates brought on by the huge deficits could snuff out small-business optimism like a candle in the night.

The Administration and Congress must act together to reduce the monumental federal deficits, not by raising taxes—which would hinder business activity and give the government more money to squander—but by cutting back on spending. Across the board cutbacks in defense, Medicare and Social Security, combined with a more efficient, less wasteful government, would go a long way toward keeping small-business optimism at its current peak.

(John Sloan is President of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.)

Attorney General's Report

Some teenagers in the state are finding to their sorrow that "free" phone calls aren't always free.

The Attorney General's office and South Central Bell have received complaints from consumers about calls being charged to their bills which they didn't make. In some cases, as many as 20 or 30 calls to the same number have been billed.

The numbers turned out to belong to organizations advertising "free" oral sex by telephone. Apparently the numbers are making the rounds of high schools and junior high schools in the state and teenagers are calling them in the mistaken belief that they are free calls. They are not. The calls are billed at the telephone rate from which they are made.

The Attorney General's office may be a bit late in coming to the aid of consumers, but it is better late than never.

GOIN' FISHIN'—The Beau Southern, a newly-renovated deep-sea fishing charter boat, will be taking three-day fishing trips to the Chandeleur Islands from Bay Cove Marina in Bay St. Louis.

Luxury deep-sea charter boat operates from Bay Cove Marina

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Even non-fishermen should be enticed by the prospects of a trip aboard a fishing craft currently anchored at Bay Cove Marina and taking three-day jaunts out to the Chandeleur Islands.

The Beau Southern, a converted crew boat, came to Bay St. Louis about a month ago and, crew members say, expects to remain here 'until at least November.'

Deep-sea fishermen can charter the boat for three-day trips to the Chandeleur where they can fish from motorized skiffs.

'Fishing widows' can go along for the ride, which includes comfortable accommodations, a light and airy lounge, gourmet meals and lots of fresh air.

The Beau Southern, owned by Pete Barrett and Dave Savoy of Lafayette, La., was originally one of a fleet of eight crew boats operated by Southern Gulf Marine Companies to deliver crew supplies and personnel to oil rigs off of Morgan City, La. and Texas.

Renovation work on the seven-year-old boat started in February.

The three V-12-71 turbo-charged General Motors diesel engines are new, Southern Gulf Marine Companies Operations Manager Jack O. Methvin says, but the structure is the same except for minor modifications.

Yacht-designed, the Beau Southern is 100 feet long and 21 feet wide and sleeps 18 persons in two- and four-person staterooms.

The boat, which is air-conditioned throughout, features private bath facilities and showers, a large lounge with a stocked, self-service bar, game tables, color television and AM-FM stereo, a cassette player and an ice machine.

There is also a leisure deck and covered outdoor area.

Seated dining is available, and Jerry Hill, Beau Southern's chef, provides such delicacies as Beef Bourguignonne, Beef Wellington, Chicken Wellington, Shrimp and Crawfish Etouffee, Steak Diane, Shrimp Creole and Snapper Fontenot from a modern, all-electric galley.

The Beau Southern, Methvin says, is managed by a team with 20 years of experience in marine services.

Captain Tim Kelly of Panama City, Fla. is an avid fisherman himself.

As a special service, the staff will clean about ten pounds of fish for each fisherman and prepare it for shipment.

The boat has a walk-in freezer to hold the fishing catch.

Methvin said each of the boat's nine two-man custom-made aluminum skiffs are equipped with a 15-horsepower motor.

The 14-foot skiffs, designed like bass boats, also have ice chests and built-in live wells to keep fish alive in the skiffs.

Guests can also fish off the side of the Beau Southern, and Hill noted that non-fishing guests can go shelling or play cards and relax in the lounge.

The boat is equipped with a machine to convert saltwater to drinking water.

Coast college graduations set

Some 732 candidates will graduate from Gulf Coast Junior College in three exercises which begin at 7 p.m. Friday in A. L. May Memorial Stadium on the Perkinston Campus.

Other ceremonies are scheduled at 7 p.m. on Monday, May 7, in the gymnasium at the Jefferson Davis Campus, Gulfport-Biloxi, and at the same time on Tuesday, May 8, in the physical education building at the Jackson County Campus, Gautier.

Addressing each of the classes will be Mrs. Eula Switzer of Biloxi, chair of the college Board of Trustees.

Degrees and diplomas will be conferred by GCJC President Dr. J. J. Hayden Jr.

Class members will be presented by the vice presidents of their respective campuses. They are Dr. Clyde Strickland, Perkinston; Glen Cadle, Jefferson Davis; and Curtis Davis, Jackson County. At Perkinston Campus there are 213 candidates, including students from the George County Center at Lucedale. Jefferson Davis has 220 and Jackson County 239.

Speakers at Perkinston will include class representative Cindy Lou King of Biloxi, president of the Student Council; and Dr. David Schwab, biology instructor who will represent the faculty.

The Rev. Norman Miller, a Baptist minister from Daringfield, Texas, will address the class at Jefferson Davis. A native of Mississippi, Miller is a former dean of students at Southwest Junior College.

Delivering the address at Jackson County will be Doug Holden, member of the Jackson County Board of Supervisors from District 5.

U.S. Daily newspapers sold $558 million more advertising last year than did television and radio combined.

It also features, Methvin said, the latest navigation equipment, including radar equipment and a ship-to-shore radio telephone to provide instant contact with offices on shore and other company vessels.

Wide open, the Beau Southern will make 22 knots, said Methvin, who inspects the boat once a month.

Donald Hessemer of Bay Cove Marina says a three-day, two-night trip for 18 people costs $375 per person.

The company will accept reservations for a minimum of ten at a somewhat higher cost, he says.

According to Hessemer, the company is also considering making Beau Southern available for dockside parties or for one-day cruises.

And for those traveling long distances to fish the Chandeleurs, the company will fly them to the Beau Southern from their hometown airports in a King Air Beechcraft piloted by its own FAA-approved air charter operation.

Reservation information is available from Southern Gulf Marine Companies, P.O. Box 91050, Lafayette, La. 70509, telephone (318) 2333-7924.

Well-known Methodist minister slated to retire

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is a reprint of an article which appeared recently in the Natchez Democrat. Rev. Bernard Walton was pastor of the Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis for six years and served for one year at Waveland United Methodist Church prior to being assigned to Grace United Methodist Church in Natchez in 1974. He was an active and well-known area clergyman, just as he is in Natchez.

By Carolyn Vance Smith, Democrat Correspondent
"We were visiting my sister in Laurel for Thanksgiving of 1962 when I had my heart attack," says Troy Watkins, former Natchez mayor and former Mississippi state senator from Adams County.

"They thought I was going out 'feet first'—it was that bad," he says.

"I was in intensive care with all kinds of tubes and monitors, and nobody could get in to see me.

"But Brother Walton came. He drove 150 miles from Natchez, to the Laurel hospital, knowing that I was in ICU and that he could not pay a real visit."

"But he came anyway. When he stuck his head in my door and waved, I just felt a lot better, having him physically there made a big difference."

"My father slipped on some ice in the winter of 1962 and really hurt himself," says Virginia Salmon, chairman of the administrative board of Grace United Methodist Church.

"He suffered from injuries for six months before we finally lost him in June 1962."

"He was hospitalized for the entire time in Brookhaven, 65 miles from Natchez."

"But Brother Walton visited my father as many times each week as my father's own minister did, who lived right there in Brookhaven."

"That meant so much to all of us."

The Bay St. Louis natives so valued Brother Walton's ministrations that they organized a fund to help him in his retirement.

"I'd begun assisting the AAs with their program after their meeting place was destroyed by Hurricane Camille in 1969. They moved to our church to meet and I became an active AA volunteer, working with alcoholics and helping where I could."

"That particular night two members of AA, who had their drinking problems under control, asked me to go with them to visit this third man; the one with a record of abuse when drunk."

"In Sumrall in Lamar County, at my first church after I finished Emory University's Candler School of Theology in Atlanta, I really learned to enjoy people as they are in real life," Walton says.

"I was with them in times of joy or sorrow, problems or happiness—just life in general. From then on through all my pastorates I tried to continue that enjoyment of people."

In churches all over South Mississippi, moving as the bishop of Mississippi sent him from Sumrall to Laurel, Purvis, McComb, Taylorsville, Ellisville, Bay St. Louis and then to Natchez in 1974, Walton has been heavily involved not only with his church but also with his community.

At Ellisville's Jones Junior College and at Natchez's Copiah-Lincoln Junior College, he has taught Bible classes. "I prefer teaching the New Testament," Walton says.

And in several pastorates he has worked not only with AA but also with the Retired Senior Volunteer Program and the Mental Health Association, serving on Natchez's RSVP advisory council and on the Adams County Mental Health Association's board of directors.

Enjoying people has led Walton naturally to what he calls the emphasis of his ministry: visitation.

"Wherever people are—in their homes or elsewhere—I like to go to them," he says.

Churches where Walton has served have also been people-oriented, with expanded programs of Christian out-reach.

Grace Methodist is a good example. In addition to active senior adult and youth group programs for church members, the church has just begun a young adult group and a people's ministry program.

Other groups include the church's Sunday school, the church's choir, the church's orchestra, the church's band, the church's drama group, the church's sports team, the church's garden, the church's library, the church's coffee house, the church's snack bar, the church's picnic grounds, the church's playground, the church's swimming pool, the church's tennis courts, the church's golf course, the church's fishing pier, the church's boat ramp, the church's marina, the church's dock, the church's wharf, the church's pier, the church's breakwater, the church's lighthouse, the church's bell tower, the church's steeple, the church's spire, the church's dome, the church's cupola, the church's lantern, the church's weather vane, the church's weather instrument, the church's weather station, the church's weather bureau, the church's weather service, the church's weather forecast, the church's weather report, the church's weather bulletin, the church's weather journal, the church's weather record, the church's weather log, the church's weather book, the church's weather album, the church's weather scrapbook, the church's weather portfolio, the church's weather collection, the church's weather archive, the church's weather library, the church's weather museum, the church's weather gallery, the church's weather theater, the church's weather studio, the church's weather workshop, the church's weather laboratory, the church's weather observatory, the church's weather station, the church's weather bureau, the church's weather service, the church's weather forecast, the church's weather report, the church's weather bulletin, the church's weather journal, the church's weather record, the church's weather log, the church's weather book, the church's weather album, the church's weather scrapbook, the church's weather portfolio, the church's weather collection, the church's weather archive, the church's weather library, the church's weather museum, the church's weather gallery, the church's weather theater, the church's weather studio, the church's weather workshop, the church's weather laboratory, the church's weather observatory.

Grace United Methodist Church, a parish of 525 members.

"That's because I enjoy people," he says. "In my early life I was what you'd call shy around people who weren't family or friends. But after I went to college and had a brush with dramatics, I overcame my shyness and developed a real love for people."

"In Sumrall in Lamar County, at my first church after I finished Emory University's Candler School of Theology in Atlanta, I really learned to enjoy people as they are in real life," Walton says.

"I was with them in times of joy or sorrow, problems or happiness—just life in general. From then on through all my pastorates I tried to continue that enjoyment of people."

In churches all over South Mississippi, moving as the bishop of Mississippi sent him from Sumrall to Laurel, Purvis, McComb, Taylorsville, Ellisville, Bay St. Louis and then to Natchez in 1974, Walton has been heavily involved not only with his church but also with his community.

At Ellisville's Jones Junior College and at Natchez's Copiah-Lincoln Junior College, he has taught Bible classes. "I prefer teaching the New Testament," Walton says.

And in several pastorates he has worked not only with AA but also with the Retired Senior Volunteer Program and the Mental Health Association, serving on Natchez's RSVP advisory council and on the Adams County Mental Health Association's board of directors.

Enjoying people has led Walton naturally to what he calls the emphasis of his ministry: visitation.

"Wherever people are—in their homes or elsewhere—I like to go to them," he says.

Churches where Walton has served have also been people-oriented, with expanded programs of Christian out-reach.

Grace Methodist is a good example. In addition to active senior adult and youth group programs for church members, the church has just begun a young adult group and a people's ministry program.

Other groups include the church's Sunday school, the church's choir, the church's orchestra, the church's band, the church's drama group, the church's sports team, the church's garden, the church's library, the church's coffee house, the church's snack bar, the church's picnic grounds, the church's playground, the church's swimming pool, the church's tennis courts, the church's golf course, the church's fishing pier, the church's boat ramp, the church's marina, the church's dock, the church's wharf, the church's pier, the church's breakwater, the church's lighthouse, the church's bell tower, the church's spire, the church's dome, the church's cupola, the church's lantern, the church's weather vane, the church's weather instrument, the church's weather station, the church's weather bureau, the church's weather service, the church's weather forecast, the church's weather report, the church's weather bulletin, the church's weather journal, the church's weather record, the church's weather log, the church's weather book, the church's weather album, the church's weather scrapbook, the church's weather portfolio, the church's weather collection, the church's weather archive, the church's weather library, the church's weather museum, the church's weather gallery, the church's weather theater, the church's weather studio, the church's weather workshop, the church's weather laboratory, the church's weather observatory.

Overeaters Anonymous, Alcoholics Anonymous, an exercise class, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and a square dance class.

"And though Walton will retire in June after 36 years in the ministry, he'll continue leading a life devoted to others. He and his wife Rachel, who retired last year from teaching at Northside Elementary School, will move to Hattiesburg.

"I'm sure I'll be busy with visitation and other services of the church there," Walton says. "And there are certain times when there's a demand for supply preaching—at vacation time or when illness strikes."

"And, of course, my wife and I will enjoy visiting our children and grandchildren who live in Indiana and in Jackson. We'll stay busy."

On Sunday, May 6, the people of Grace Methodist Church will honor the Waltons with a reception at the church from 3 until 4:30 p.m., says Mrs. Salmon.

"Everybody loves both of them so much, I never go anywhere that people don't stop me to tell me, 'We love you minister.' And most often they're not even Methodists."

Brother Walton can be outgoing or reserved, funny or dignified, but he's got one thing unusual in a minister: his manner is always appropriate, no matter what the occasion.

"You are so right," says Watkins, whose family has belonged to Grace Church since right after it was established in 1951.

A report was presented by Mrs. Roz Weatherston Southeast District Homemakers Council meeting and Dress Revues in Ellisville April 3.

Hancock Library System updates purchase method

The Hancock County Library System which provides centralized services to the Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and Kiln Libraries is now using an automated method of ordering books which will result in more efficient service to the public, according to Arleen Garcia, head of Technical Services.

The system, called BataPhone, allows Garcia to key in the 10-digit International Standard Book Number (ISBN) that identifies the title to be purchased.

After ISBN's are entered for all titles desired, the order is transmitted to a major book vendor via toll-free telephone lines.

"The system is similar to that used by many retail stores to order stock, but has only recently been adapted to the unique needs of libraries," says Garcia.

The day following an order, a printed acknowledgement is mailed to the library along with individual computer generated order slips for each title.

However, the processing of the order has already begun by the vendor.

The system eliminates manual typing of multiple order forms which had to include numerous items of information for each book purchased.

Also eliminated is the mailing of purchase orders and order slips thus increasing the speed and efficiency of the ordering process.

"Books ordered are now available to the public several weeks sooner than before," Garcia noted.

An additional benefit is the reduction of administrative costs for the centralized processing center which handles orders for the three libraries.

Because orders are placed electronically and toll-free, the costs of paper forms, envelopes, and postage are completely eliminated. Also, staff time in preparing the orders has been greatly reduced.

"We are already seeing the benefits from the system," says Garcia. "In the long run we hope that the savings can be applied to the materials budget to purchase additional books," she added.

LIBRARY PROCEDURES MODERNIZED—Arleen Garcia, head of Technical Services for the Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Kiln Libraries, orders books using a BataPhone data terminal which electronically transmits the order by toll-free phone lines to a major book vendor. "The system will provide better service to the public by eliminating costly and time consuming manual typing of order forms and mailing of order slips and purchase orders," says Garcia.

Corps offers help on erosion

Have a stream running through your property that is showing bank erosion? The Army Corps of Engineers may be able to help.

The Corps has recently published a new illustrated brochure entitled "Streambank Protection Guidelines for Landowners and Local Governments" that is the result of a seven-year study to examine the causes and cures of streambank erosion.

The free 60-page brochure describes existing and new techniques of streambank protection.

Although the Corps cannot undertake erosion control itself without direction and authorization from Washington, D.C., the brochure does tell landowners and local officials what remedies they may want to undertake in various situations.

In some cases the work would require a Corps permit, and the brochure tells you how to obtain one.

A copy may be obtained from Map Room, U.S. Army Engineer District, P.O. Box 2288, Mobile, Ala. 36628, telephone (205) 690-2631.

The brochure may be picked up from the Map Room at 450

St. Louis St. between the hours of 7 a.m. and 3:45 p.m. Monday through Friday.

ASCS Report

Protect Acreage Bases

Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, advises all farmers to file an acreage report whether they participate in farm programs or not.

"Farmers who did not sign up for the programs could benefit by certifying their planted acres because the reported 1984 acreage will be used in establishing the 1985 base acres," Gennin said.

The acreage reports are used to determine compliance with farm programs and to document the crop acreage for establishing future crop acreage bases.

To be eligible for price support loans, target prices and other program benefits, farm program participants are required to report the actual planted acreage on a field-by-field basis.

Only a small number of farmers in the county have reported fall-seeded and spring-seeded crops, according to Gennin.

ASCS verifies that acreage reports are accurate by randomly checking farms and also by providing aerial photographs for farmers to identify their fields.

"Farmers may request pre-measurement and other producer services to be sure reports are accurate and avoid unnecessary worry over the loss of program benefits," He said the service is provided for a nominal fee and the measurements are guaranteed for the crop year.

Pearl River and Hancock County farmers have from now to May 4 to report wheat and oats. The final date for corn, grain sorghum, pea nuts, rice and other non-conserving crops is July 15.

Acreage reports may be filed weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the county ASCS office in Poplarville.

No wonder bananas are so popular!

Bananas are one of our most popular fruits. They're easy on the budget and available in markets year round. Nature has portion-controlled them in individual servings complete with biodegradable packaging!

Bananas are perfect for patio parties, barbecues, card-playing casuals, easy-going meals, baseball and football stadium snacks, fondue fun, biking, hiking, picnicking and many other uses. Bananas are nutritious. They have about the same number of calories as other fruits—85 calories in a three and one half ounce (about a 6-inch) banana. Having almost no fat and containing natural sugars giving quick energy, they're a fairly good source of vitamins C and A, contain a fair amount of calcium and phosphorus. They're an excellent source of potassium.

Because of their mild flavor, easy chewing and digestibility, bananas are particularly useful in the diets of infants, and older people who may have dentures or delicate digestion.

Because of their smooth non-irritating texture, bananas are one of the few fruits that can be eaten raw by ulcer patients.

Bananas must be picked when green. If allowed to ripen on the plant they split open and are tasteless. Therefore, they are cut while still green, shipped under carefully controlled temperatures to keep them green, then ripen in specially designed ripening rooms in the United States. Both the temperature and the humidity of the ripening room are carefully controlled.

Many fruits are best eaten soon after purchase, but bananas can have a more leisurely ripening process at home. Smaller families often find it very convenient to buy green bananas and let them ripen gradually.

Select bananas plump, unblemished and bright in appearance. A dull-looking banana often will not ripen properly. Let the stage of ripeness dictate the use of the banana. For many cooking purposes, it is best to have the banana firm to the touch, golden but still tinged with green.

When the banana becomes fully ripe it is flecked with brown and is sweet and mellow. This is the stage many people prefer for eating raw.

Over-ripe bananas, often at reduced prices, are great for banana bread or cake. Make some and freeze for later use.

At home, keep bananas at room temperature until they reach the desired stage of ripeness. If you aren't ready to use ripe bananas, it is alright to put them in a plastic bag in the refrigerator. The cold will slow down the ripening process for several days. The banana peeling will darken but the fruit inside remains good.

Serve bananas any way that suits your fancy. Invite a banana to breakfast. Bananas are instant-quick. Peel and eat. They slice without mess or fuss. Children like banana's mild flavor. Adults appreciate their "stay with you" feeling of satisfaction.

Use bananas as a topping with syrup for French toast or pancakes. Make banana eggnog in the blender with eggs, milk, a ripe banana, and a dash of sugar and vanilla.

Banana cinnamon toast is a "quicky" with particular appeal for children. Cover a piece of buttered toast with sliced banana and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar and place under a preheated broiler for two minutes.

Bananas are great in fruit salads, but have you thought of adding them to green salads or seafood salad? Bananas are good: broiled, glazed, or sautéed. They can be added to main dishes. There are many banana desserts from classic cream pie or a banana cake to banana flambe.

Number of Mississippi farms declined

Mississippi farms declined in numbers and decreased in size between 1978 and 1982, according to the Commerce Department's Census Bureau. Preliminary reports just released for the 1982 Census of Agriculture show 42,420 farms, compared with 44,104 in 1978. Land in farms totaled 12.4 million acres, an average per farm of 293 acres, compared with 300 in 1978. Total sales of agricultural products amounted to $1.9 billion in 1982.

The average value of land and buildings per farm was $266,201, with a per acre value of $923.

Land from which crops were harvested was reported at 5.8 million acres, and acres irrigated rose from 308,694 to 433,307 in 1982.

The Bureau defines a farm as any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were, or normally would have been, sold in the census year.

The preliminary data indicate expenditures for livestock and poultry feed were $288.9 million; total costs for farm energy, $163.6 million; for fertilizer, $114.5 million; and for hired labor, $138.8 million.

The sale of crops amounted to $1.1 billion, 59 percent of total agricultural sales. By harvested acreage, among the leading crops were soybeans, with 81.9 million bushels from 3.5 million acres; cotton, with 1.6 million bales from 978,463 acres; and wheat, with 29.2 million bushels from 809,131 acres. Other field crops included rice, 239,938 acres; sorghum, 89,477 acres; and corn, 80,510 acres.

The sales of livestock, poultry, and their products were $789.3 million. Dairy products amounting to $121.8 million were sold from 1,282 farms. The number of milk cows was up from 94,891 in the previous census to 96,309 in 1982.

The total inventory of cattle and calves was reported at 1.5 million head on 29,410 farms. The 704,824 sold were down from 654,318 four years earlier.

An inventory of 223,394 hogs and pigs, including 27,420 for breeding purposes, was reported on 4,062 farms of which 45 farms had inventories of 500 or more and accounted for 56 percent of the State's total inventory. A total of 357,034 hogs and pigs were reported sold, of which 59,030 were feeder pigs.

Some 178 farms reported 5,067 head of sheep and lambs, operated by tenants.

Data in the report for 1978 and 1982 are directly comparable for acreages and inventories. Dollar values have not been adjusted for changes in price levels. Single copies of preliminary state and county reports may be obtained for $1.75 and $1.50 each, respectively, prepaid from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. Price for entire set is available upon request.

Senior Update

BY VIVIANNE BODEAU

A HEALTHY YOU

We are told by doctors and psychologists that there is no single or simple reason why so many Americans are too fat and why so many carefully planned diets and exercise programs fail.

It has been estimated that at any given time, some 10 to 20 million Americans are dieting to lose weight and millions more probably should.

Older persons should be particularly conscious of being a normal weight as hypertension, heart trouble, diabetes and other ailments are more prone to settle in their bodies.

It is now being established what we long felt to be true that some people retain fat and build up fat cells faster and longer than other people. It is a comforting thought and an excuse for why we tend to be heavier but we still must try to be thinner for good health.

Why are we fat? Why do we overeat? There are so many reasons. You may be one reason, you may be several.

Many programs fail because the dieting person does not have a strong and consistent desire to lose weight and does not put extra effort into the program.

Some people do gain weight unconsciously. They eat more food than they need and do not realize it. They eat more food than they need and do not realize it.

They eat more food than they need and do not realize it. They eat more food than they need and do not realize it.

County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

SEED MAGGOTS

Home gardeners often plant early to get rapid seed germination and growth, but instead may get seed maggots. These insects become a pest when seed is planted too early in soil that is high in organic matter.

The adult of this particular pest is a small fly that deposits eggs on the soil surface on seed or seedlings. After hatching, the yellowish-white maggots burrow into the seed or seedling destroying germination and growth potential.

Vegetables attacked by this pest usually fail to germinate or if they do sprout, plants are weak and sickly. If these symptoms appear, examine seed and seedlings for the presence of fly larvae.

Replanting is often necessary by the time this pest is discovered because of extensive stand damage. Planting on a well-prepared seedbed when conditions are right for germination and growth can help prevent problems with this insect.

For information on insecticide recommendations in control of seed maggots, contact the Extension office.

SOYBEAN VARIETIES

Hancock County farmers should consider several factors before choosing a soybean variety that is best suited to their needs.

Many varieties are well adapted to Mississippi growing conditions. Although no single variety should be considered superior to all others, in some situations there are varieties that are better suited than others.

A study of the general characteristics along with disease, nematode, and herbicide reactions should help to select varieties that will maximize production on your farm.

Remember that adequate lime and fertilizer combined with good management are essential to produce high yields of any variety.

You should evaluate your land and study yield performance at research stations similar to your soil and location.

Don't totally abandon known varieties that are yielding well. Instead, switch to new ones shown by research to have advantages.

More information on herbicide, disease and nematode reactions, as well as yield comparisons is available at the Extension office.

Soil test best fertilizer guide

Getting a soil test is the only way to know for sure which garden soils need fertilizer and lime.

The amount of fertilizer your garden will need depends on the soil's natural fertility, amount of organic matter present, type of fertilizer used and crop you plan to grow, said Dr. Milo Burnham, Extension horticulturist.

"Soil tests show the amounts of phosphorus and potash in the soil as well as the soil pH," Burnham said. "On the basis of soil test results, you can add fertilizer and lime to correct soil deficiencies."

Vegetables fall into three categories according to fertilizer requirements: heavy feeders, medium feeders and light feeders. If your garden is large, try to group crops according to their fertilizer requirements to make application easier.

Heavy feeders include: cabbage, Irish potato, lettuce, onion, sweet potato and tomato; medium feeders: beans of all types, beet, carrot, sweet corn, cucumber, eggplant, greens, muskmelon, okra, peanut, pepper, pumpkin, radish, sunflower, Swiss chard and watermelon; light feeder: Southern pea.

Fertilizers are sold by the grade, such as 6-8-8 or 13-13-13. The number refers to the percent of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, respectively.

"A fertilizer of high analysis, such as 13-13-13, is more expensive per 100 pounds than a fertilizer of low analysis, such as 6-8-8," Burnham said. "But, you will use less of the high analysis fertilizer per 1,000 square feet of garden, so it's the best buy."

Apply fertilizer before or at planting. Two methods are in the row and broadcast. The broadcast method is the more practical for most gardeners.

To broadcast, spread the recommended rate of fertilizer evenly over the soil surface and thoroughly mix it into the soil during soil preparation. Heavy feeding crops will need additional fertilizer as a sidedressing after the plants are well established.

For most gardens, 25 pounds of a complete fertilizer such as 6-8-8 or 15 pounds of 13-13-13 broadcast per 1,000 square feet before planting is sufficient. To apply fertilizer in the row, reduce the amount by one-third and mix it thoroughly with the soil so it won't damage young plants and seed.

Fertilizer also can be applied in a combination of broadcast and row application. Broadcast half the recommended fertilizer over the garden surface and spade or rototill it into the soil.

Apply remaining half in furrows three inches on each side of the row and slightly below the seed.

"Although the danger of fertilizer injury is greater, placing half of the fertilizer in a band is better than applying all fertilizer broadcast," Burnham said.

Fertilizer applied before or at planting time usually will not supply all nutrients needed during the growing season of heavy and medium feeding vegetables. Apply additional fertilizer as a sidedressing along the row four to six inches from the base of the plants when the plants are established.

Additional fertilizer is usually some form of nitrogen. For peppers, tomatoes and eggplant, apply the first sidedressing after the first fruit set.

Repeat at four to six-week intervals. Sidedress corn when it is knee high. When sidedressing with ammonium nitrate, use one pound per 100 row feet.

CELEBRATE SPRING!

"Spring rides no horses down the hill
But comes on foot, a goose girl still
And all the loveliest things there be Come simply, so it seems to me."
(Edna St. Vincent Millay)

It's spring, or nearly so, and in our hearts we all affirm the words of the poet as each seed puts forth the first green shoots and the gradually warming sun sends snow and ice melting in rivulets that run in all directions beneath our feet. It's spring, and even if we have a ways to go on our weight loss program, we feel like celebrating. But before you reach for that first ice cream cone or bag of jelly beans of the season, think again! There are so many delightful ways to celebrate spring that are, like the season itself, both lovely and simple. Why not try one of these instead?

Celebrate the TASTE of spring by serving a meal of spring lamb, new peas and carrots cooked with mint leaves, tiny new potatoes, tender asparagus, and strawberries. Who needs jelly beans after a feast such as this?

Celebrate the SOUNDS of spring by taking a walk and listening to the hopeful sounds of bird songs and children's voices as they scatter out to the sidewalks and parks after a winter's confinement.

Celebrate the SIGHTS and COLORS of spring by visiting a public garden or park, even if nothing is up yet but the first early crocuses. Buy yourself a perky bunch of daffodils, and wear one in your lapel. Treat the bathroom to fluffy new towels in a pastel color. Wallpaper a wall in a cheery floral pattern.

Be a kid again. Take the kids to visit an amusement park or zoo, or to feed ducks. Join them in playing marbles, jacks, or hopscotch, or roller skating. Primp a little! Put on a frilly dress and go to a romantic afternoon movie. Try on spring hats. Buy yourself a pair of sneakers in bright colors. Get a new haircut, facial, and manicure. Enjoy!

Buddy Morrow. Mrs. Elda Duke is the Hancock County chairman for the Mississippi Lung Association and was elated over the success of the program which also taught children the hazards of smoking. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Ross sounds 'serious note of alarm' on Mississippi top soil erosion rate

The wealth of a nation is in its top three inches of soil. At the present rate of soil erosion in Mississippi, our husbandry of the soil is not very good.

This serious note of alarm concerning soil erosion was sounded by Agriculture Commissioner Jim Buck Ross.

"Mississippi is now losing an average of more than 10 tons of topsoil an acre on cultivated crops," Ross said. "In some areas of the state, the rate is 15 tons per acre. This 120 million tons of our priceless soil amounts to a loss of $1 billion annually in the value of the soil alone. We're also losing crop yields, water quality and other natural resource values."

Ross chairs a statewide Hold Our Topsoil (HOT) committee made up of 19 federal and state agencies and groups with a goal of cutting the erosion in half during the five-year program.

HOT is an educational campaign launched last year to increase farmer, landowner and general public awareness of the state's severe erosion problems. The program calls attention to measures recommended to cut and prevent erosion.

"Mississippi ranks near the bottom in many categories, but in soil erosion loss, we're number three in the nation," Ross continued. "Only Tennessee and Missouri have more serious erosion problems."

After a successful awareness program culminating in a statewide HOT field day near Bolton last year, plans are mapped to expand the program this year to all seven Soil and Water Conservation Districts in the state.

Soil and Water Conservation Area Seven HOT Field Day is to be held on July 26 on the adjoining farms of W. L. and Baker Rogers in Lincoln County.

Other HOT field day dates and locations are as follows: area one, Aug. 22, on the Johnny Howarth farm in Bolivar County; area two, Sept. 20, on the L. H. Johnson farm in Calhoun County; area three, Aug. 2, on the North Mississippi Branch Experiment Station at Holly Springs.

Area four, Aug. 23, on the James Creek farm in Monroe County; area five, Sept. 6, on the Robert Mashburn and Sam Owens farms in Hinds County; and area six, Aug. 29, on the Joe Morgan Farm in Forrest County.

Field days will demonstrate practical soil conserving approaches on cropland, pastureland, forestland and wildlife areas. Most Soil and Water Conservation areas will be working for a minimum of about 1,000 people, giving a state total of about 10,000 people visiting soil conserving practices this year.

"The combined effort of all federal, state and local agricultural agencies and groups will enable us to reach our goal of cutting the statewide erosion rate by 50 percent during the five-year HOT campaign," said A. E. "Gene" Sullivan, state conservationist, Soil Conservation Service.

"Sustained agricultural production and improved water quality will be the benefits of the project that every Mississippian will enjoy."

A study in Iowa shows the impact of soil erosion. In 1882, the state averaged about 14 inches of topsoil; in 1982 that average was only six inches of topsoil. Scientists predict that by 2042, Iowa will average only two inches of topsoil.

"Controlling soil erosion is one of the most serious farm problems we face today," Ross said. "We must make sure we succeed for the sake of future generations of Mississippians."

DRUG QUIZ

Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION—According to a federal report, the percentage of adults who smoke cigarettes is at an all-time low since 1955. Today, just under a third of adults are still smoking. However, while adult males have been kicking the habit in increasing numbers, adult females have not followed suit—and more children and teenagers, boys and girls, are experimenting with cigarettes. How many pre-teenage children are regular smokers?

a) 1 million
b) 100,000
c) 50,000
d) 5,000

ANSWER—According to the surgeon General, one hundred thousand children under age 13 are regular smokers. A major public health campaign is now underway to persuade millions of young people never to start smoking in the first place.

Correct answer—b.
